The Whale

Friendly giant silver Whale
– dive inside for a touching 5 minute show.

“The Whale is a fantastic adventure for children and their grown ups. Really accessible and adaptable for those who might be a little hesitant at stepping into the mouth of a giant tin whale.”

Promoter

“Brilliant. Genuinely great mix of education and entertainment”
Audience Comment

The Female Warrior

The true story of Hannah Snell, born in 1723, aka James Gray, in their EXTRAORDINARY career as soldier, marine, mother, stage performer & publican.

The Q

A celebration of the Art of Queuing. Learn the Science of Queueology, witness dramas of Pushing In (and their terrible consequences) and take part in a #Quelfie with @Q_mob

"The Q is a surreal and funny outdoor performance which will appeal to anyone who has ever found themselves queuing up."
Promoter

The Cricketers

Top-notch urban sporting activity. Expect Googlies and the odd LBW, possibly a Dibbly Dobbly and almost certainly a Sticky Wicket once the Security Guard gets involved.

“Perfectly played with the right dose of silly”
Audience Member

“The conceit is great for a piece of outdoor theatre... a programmer’s dream”
ACE Assessor’s Report

The OakMobile

A magical mobile micro-theatre, with nature/environment or festive-themed story-telling inside.

“When I stepped into the OakMobile
I became 7 ½ years old”
Visitor aged 53

The Difference Engine

Our bespoke access app which provides captions/subtitles to mobile devices.

“Being able to offer it on any performance, anywhere - it's phenomenal”

Chris Lloyd, Red Ladder

It was three months in all before I was fit enough to return to my ship, under the command of a new Captain.
